Visiting Swansea Grand Theatre

When you walk down Singleton Street you will see our big building, near the carpark.

You will walk through the front door and into the foyer.

In front of you, you will see our box office and our helpful team of box office staff. They will give you your tickets for the show. They can answer any questions you might have about the theatre.

A loudspeaker will tell you when the door to the theatre is open. This means you can go in if you like.

This is our theatre. You and other people with tickets to see the show can sit down in the red seats.

Your ticket will tell you which seat you can sit in, but you can ask one of the ushers if you need help.

When the show is ready to start, the big lights will go out very slowly and it will go dark. Some people might still be making a little bit of noise, but this is nothing to be worried about.

Then the actors will come on stage and the show will start.

At the end everyone will clap their hands. This lets the actors know that everybody has enjoyed watching the show.

We hope you enjoy your visit!
